

Monday

Hi Honey!

Gosh, I just couldn't wait any longer to write -- in fact, I almost even sent a card today so you would get it tomorrow -- SEE!
I miss you already.

Well, my day has been restful but uneventful. I didn't get up till 9:30 then messed around till noon. All I did this afternoon was go in and see GP (short for grandpa^{HA!}) and GUESS WHAT, you know the cute birthday present we picked out -- WOULD YOU BELIEVE that Mary got him the exact same present? but no one would tell me because they didn't want to disappoint me. OH WELL!

Now, you're gonna hate me but guess what I discovered just a while ago -- two of my beautiful long fingernails are gone (and I don't know what happened to them??) I can't understand why I get so nervous when I come home but it seems when I am here

I always bite my fingernails, I'll try and not bite any more -- I PROMISE.

How did your news go over to your folks? I thought about you all the way home & was hoping everyone would be ok.

Mom just came in & saw I was writing you and said to be sure &
again invite you all down next Sunday.
I'm gonna go fishing either tomorrow or Wednesday with B.P.

Well, I guess this is about all that's news. I think I told you to go ahead & write first but I just had to drop a short note.

Incidentally, your card was darling
and I did wait until today to open it. I'm sure it's contents can be put to good use -- RIGHT??

Guess I'd better quit & read a little of the book (in between watching the late show).

Bye for now.

P.S. Looking forward to hearing from you.

Love,
Glad
